Forged in desperation, united by adversity and resurgent in power, the UCM exists for a single purpose - to wrest mankind's lost strongholds from the clutches of the Scourge. A collection of diverse and remote frontier worlds, the UCM is a restless cultural melting pot, bubbling with a righteous desire for vengeance.

One and a half centuries after the Scourge captured Earth and the Cradle Worlds, the UCM has expanded beyond all recognition. The greatest military force in the history of humanity has been assembled: a vast armada recently unleashed against enemies old and new.

2 PLAYER STARTER SET

The Scourge are foul, necro-parasitic lifeforms which can utterly consume an unfortunate host, bending its life to its will. They thrive on the consumption and assimilation of other races, their very mode of existence as potent a threat as their formidable battlefield technology. They are the Galaxy's ultimate predators.

Their breathtaking assimilation of the central planets, including Earth itself, has made them the primary threat to the very existence of mankind. Their machines of combat on the battlefield are abhorrent to witness, but violent death at the hand of their horrific alien physiology can be as nothing compared to the dread of being taken alive.

DROPZONE COMMANDER

It is the year 2670 and a dark time for humanity. Earth and the Cradle Worlds are long lost to the Scourge, vile alien usurpers, bent on assimilating all life under their iron grip.

However, it is not a time without hope. The resurgent United Colonies of Mankind is poised to unleash an invasion of titanic proportions to reclaim its lost homelands.

You can now play your part in these war-torn times! Fight for mighty humanity or the aggressive Scourge in tabletop battles for supremacy, played with finely detailed miniatures.

You will command armies of aircraft, tanks and infantry in battles of tactics, speed and firepower. Prepare your forces: the battle for mankind's future has begun!

THE UNITED COLONIES OF MANKIND

Forged in desperation, united by adversity and resurgent in power, the UCM exists for a single purpose – to wrest mankind's lost strongholds from the clutches of the Scourge. A collection of diverse and remote frontier worlds, the UCM is a restless cultural melting pot, bubbling with a righteous desire for vengeance.

One and a half centuries after the Scourge captured Earth and the Cradle Worlds, the UCM has expanded beyond all recognition. The greatest military force in the history of humanity has been assembled; a vast armada recently unleashed against enemies old and new.

THE COLONIES

The UCM consists of a series of former frontier planets, once peopled only by desperadoes, ne'er do wells and enterprising characters, eager to forge new lives and seek fortunes. These worlds were not chosen for their beauty or amenity, but rather for their considerable mineral wealth.

The course of their development was irrevocably altered in the chaotic aftermath of the Scourge invasion, when scores of fleeing refugees descended on these obscure backwaters. A measure of the enterprising and hardy character of the original inhabitants influenced this massive influx of new blood, creating a new and dynamic civilisation.

Today, the colonies have become the industrial powerhouses they were originally intended to be, churning out the mighty war machine required to take on the Scourge. Their extensive natural resources have proven crucial to mankind's spectacular recovery from total defeat. The estimated population of the UCM has recently exceeded 20 billion souls.

All the UCM's planets are located far beyond the Western Spiral Arm of the galaxy. While there are officially hundreds of worlds in the UCM, the majority are nothing more than barren rocks, with only tiny outposts and mining concerns. A relatively small number are of central importance in the UCM and house the vast majority of its people. The grandest of these are colloquially known as 'The Big Dozen'.
